Hazardous Waste
Permit Application

Gentlemen:

On November 18, 1980, Great Lakes Terminal and Transport Corp. submitted EPA Form 3510-1 (6-80) General Information and EPA Form 3510-3 (6-80) Hazardous Waste Permit Application, Part A, for its Bedford Park, Illinois facility.

This early in the RCRA program and not being completely versed with the regulations, we elected to submit application for a Hazardous Waste Permit to gain interim status because we receive and ship some of the products listed in Subpart D Paragraph 261.33 (f) of RCRA section 3001 listed under commercial chemical products.

Our business can be best described as a bulk chemical storage facility for industrial solvents. We conduct no manufacturing or processing functions of any kind, there by generating no related wastes.

After thorough internal review and with the aid of outside legal counsel, we have concluded that our operation cannot be defined as a Hazardous Waste activity and as such, we request that our application for a Hazardous Waste Permit be withdrawn at this time.

Yours very truly,

JAN 13 1981

Dear Owner/Operator of a Hazardous Waste
Treatment, Storage or Disposal Facility:

As you know, November 19, 1980, marked the day when the Federal hazardous waste management regulations became effective. Since that time my staff, in conjunction with State personnel, has been actively inspecting hazardous waste treatment, storage and disposal facilities to determine the status of compliance with Federal Interim Status Standards. Our objective in implementing this program is to achieve compliance with the law in the least burdensome manner to the regulated community. One way to achieve this objective is to share with the regulated community on a periodic basis our experience to date in evaluating compliance. Our hope is that this information will be a helpful guide to insuring your compliance.

During the course of our approximately 180 inspections conducted since November 19, 1980, it has become clear to us that many of the facilities which filed a Part A hazardous waste permit application were unaware of the need to comply with the Federal Interim Status Standards. You should note that civil and criminal liability can result from failure to comply with these standards. These standards are addressed in Chapter 40 of the Code of Federal Regulations, Part 265, which was originally published on May 19, 1980.

Our experience indicates that the most frequent violations of the Part 265 Federal Interim Status Standards for which we have issued compliance orders and imposed civil money penalties involve failure to comply with the requirements of Sections 265.13 - .16, 265.51 - .56, 265.73, and 265.17. These Sections deal with the requirements of a waste analysis, security, general inspection requirements, personnel training, arrangements with local authorities, contingency plans, emergency procedures, operating records and the management of containers. A detailed explanation of these requirements is offered on the Attachment to this letter. I urge you to review the Part 265 regulations with your staff, and to take all necessary steps to comply with them.

Our experience also indicates that a number of precautionary notifications were filed where the company was uncertain whether or not they were subject to these regulations. The November 19, 1980, Federal Register urged all facilities which have filed unnecessary notifications or permit applications to advise the USEPA Regional Office. If you are in the above category, please send this information to the following address:
